

Message to the Youth Alexander Laszlo

Cybercowboy and author William Gibson once said, “the future is already here, it’s just unevenly distributed.” This is like the idea that you don’t have to wait for it, that you don’t have to prove anything, that you are fully deserving of manifesting the universe and all its potential just as you are now, simply because you are you, because you are human.

And yes, it does matter how you human, and whether you human well or not. That matters, but only because it changes the flavor of reality. If you want it to be delicious, then you just need to tap into your core essence as a Sourcerer of the Divine Spark that lives with you. For it lives within all things, though sometimes that is forgotten.

Re-member your power to source, re-story your narrative as an expression of this amazing and interconnected universe, and re-joice in the memory of things yet to come. Because it’s already here.

As Arundhati Roy famously said, “another world is not only possible, she is on her way. On a quiet day, I can hear her breathing.” Listen. And be the world you want to see in your life.