

Message to the Youth

Roger Nelson

A Source of Wonder

For the last four decades I have watched a growing number of groups and individuals working to bring people together to hasten the maturation of our human race.

People make movies, and write books and songs, and they gather to meditate, all with the same goal, to honor our future as stewards and protectors of the Earth, our beautiful home.

Today the growth continues while the task remains unfinished, but my confidence in the future is raised by the gathering of spiritual forces. Over several days, a world-spanning network of singers, poets, writers, and scientists has come together to celebrate the wisdom and beauty of a common vision. They all are working toward a future earth intelligence symbolically called the Noosphere by Teilhard de Chardin.

I am grateful to the Club of Budapest and the Goi Peace Foundation for leading us toward this Source of Wonder.
